

The End is at Hand

I Peter 4: 7-11

Today is a day unlike any we've ever known. Even in the few short years I've lived, the world has seen drastic change. We are living in a day of difficulty and decision.

The day when God was given His rightful place in the affairs of our nation has been replaced with lust, greed, self-confidence, arrogance, and pride. Our society no longer sees the need for God in our midst. He has been removed from our schools, the halls of justice, and many of the legislative assemblies in our land.

Sadly, God is no longer welcome in the average home in America. We have forgotten the divine providence of Almighty God that has brought us to where we are today. America would never have survived without the Lord. I struggle to understand how a people so blessed can be so ungrateful as to even question if God exists! We must be living in the end times. Let's consider where we fit into these end times and how we are to respond as we realize: The End is at Hand.

I. A Day of Anticipation (7a) – But the end of all things is at hand! Yes, these are troubling times, but they are also exciting times. These are days of anticipation unlike any other generation has known. I believe that the end is much nearer than we think. There are two aspects of our day of anticipation that we must consider.

A. The Return of our Lord – As perilous as the day in which we live has become, we must remember there is hope for the believer. Jesus has been gone for nearly 2,000 years, but He is coming again!

- I am as sure of His return, as anything I know. I have no doubt that Jesus will come to claim His bride. I believe, with all that is in me, that we are living in the 11th hour of time; this thing is fixing to wind up. I have no problem with the idea that some of us in this very room could witness His return. The stage is being set for His return.
- Time won't allow an in depth study of prophecy concerning Jesus' return, but the signs are clearly pointing toward it. Israel is a sovereign nation again. With the exception of the US and a small handful of alliances, she stands alone. The Islamic movement is seeking the total destruction of the Israeli nation. It is the fastest growing religion in the world and views Christians as infidels. Even in America, it seems as if anyone but Christians are tolerated in today's society. You don't have to be a Bible scholar to see this world lining up in opposition to God.

- Also the Bible teaches that there will be a great falling away before the Lord returns. 2 Thes.2:3 – Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition; This is very evident in our day. The Christian faith is in steady decline. Churches that were once filled to capacity have closed their doors. Even here, in the Bible belt, we are surrounded by greater numbers each year who are un-churched.
- The church has lost its power and influence. The wicked among us no longer view the “conservative Christian” as a threat to their sinful indulgence. We live as if there’s no use to take a stand. May I remind you that we are still a majority! If God be for us, who can be against us? Phil.4:13 - I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.
- Oh that God would open our eyes to see that He is coming soon! We need to live as if we truly believed that. The saved ought to wake each morning thinking, this could be the day. Heb.10:37 - For yet a little while, and he that shall come will come, and will not tarry. We must anticipate His return.

B. The Reality of our Lives – As much as I believe in the Lord’s return, I’m also mindful of my obligation to do all I can with the little time I’ve been given. Life at its best, blessed with many years, is brief. We only get one opportunity to live for Jesus.

- Take a moment and consider the life you’ve lived. Ask yourself, have I given Jesus my best? Have I accomplished all I could have or should have for Him? I’m sure we all would have to answer, No!
- We may have been faithful to attend church, but much of our lives are lived for self. There are times when we are challenged and motivated, but we quickly lose that enthusiasm. Our lives may be filled with good intentions, but that alone doesn’t accomplish much.
- A missionary said, “If I had a thousand lives to live, I’d live them all for Jesus.” What about the life we’ve been given? We are left here for a purpose; God has a plan for each of us. We cannot put off or neglect what we need to do today. Jam.4:14 - Whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow. For what is your life? It is even a vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away. I have already lived half of my life. I want to serve the Lord as if tomorrow would never come.

II. A Day of Participation (7b-10) – As we anticipate the end times, we must not sit idly by just waiting on Jesus’ return. Yes, we are eternally secure, but that is no license for laziness. Our text reveals five character traits that those anticipating the Lord’s return should possess.

A. Submission (7b) – Be ye therefore sober. We are told to be sober. This involves much more than refraining from alcohol. It means to “have a sound mind, being serious, in control of our lives and actions.” It is a state of mind that fully understands Jesus will return and a constant readiness for His return.

- A sober mind can focus on the eternal, as well as, the present need of himself and others. Living soberly is living in light of the gospel with a proper perspective of how we are to live and the glory that awaits. Soberness sees the “big picture.”

B. Supplication (7b) – And watch unto prayer. This is the same command the disciples heard in the garden of Gethsemane. This is genuine prayer; that which is aware of the needs around us at all times.

- Prayer is the greatest resource we have, but it often goes unused. We need to be in a constant attitude of prayer. Imagine what we could see right here if those present tonight would watch unto prayer. I’m not talking about a generic prayer at bedtime, but earnest, heart-felt, God-seeking prayer.

- Consider the homes and lives that would be forever changed if God’s people would only pray. I firmly believe that prayer makes a difference; it will avail much!

C. Affection (8) – And above all things have fervent charity among yourselves: for charity shall cover the multitude of sins. In these last days, we need fervent charity for each other. This isn’t referring to shallow love, but the type of love that God has for us.

- Fervent has the idea of an athlete stretching, reaching out, and giving all that he has to achieve his goal. Fervent love is passionate, (not sensual), for those around us. Our church needs to rekindle its love for the brethren.

- With love consuming our hearts, there is no room for jealousy, anger, bitterness, or division. Fervent love will cover a multitude of sins. If we could love as God loves, we wouldn’t see the imperfections in others. If we are to reach the lost, we must love each other. Genuine love will show forth so that the failures and imperfections go unnoticed.

D. Communion (9) – Use hospitality one to another without grudging. In Peter’s day, believers opened their homes to each other. They found refuge, safety, and a bond of fellowship.

- We need that fellowship today. This world doesn’t understand us. They have nothing to offer that I desire. In these last days we ought to surround ourselves with God’s people. I find strength and encouragement with you. Church fellowship strengthens individual bonds. We learn to feel as others do. We must stand together in support of each other!

E. Cooperation (10) – As every man hath received the gift, even so minister the same one to another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God. God has given each of us individual gifts. We are to be good stewards of these gifts.

- It takes all of us working together to fulfill God's plan for us. Never let Satan or anyone else tell you that you are not needed in the church. Every gift is important and they compliment each other. I can't exercise a gift that I don't possess. We each have individual gifts. Every believer possesses at least one. We must work together to fulfill the work of the Lord.
- We are each responsible for the gifts we've been given. If we fail to use our gifts, there may be a void in our service. The church needs to work together in these last days for the glory of God.

II. A Day of Participation

III. A Day of Sanctification (11) – If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God; if any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth: that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen. I would hope that we are closer to the Lord than when we were first saved. It should be our desire to become more like Jesus every day.

- A sanctified life is one that has been delivered from the power of sin; we learn to rise above it. Our day needs those who live a sanctified life for Jesus! This involves two areas.

A. Our Work (11a) – If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God; if any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth: We ought to glorify Christ in our words, as well as, our deeds. Our speech ought to be in such a way that others see Jesus.

- But, actions speak louder than words. Our lives must show that Jesus lives within our hearts. This can only be accomplished through God's power working in us, His ability, not ours. What does our life reveal?

B. Our Witness (11b) – that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen. Basically, our lives ought to glorify God. Everything that we do should show forth a loving Savior who is in complete control of our lives. Wherever we go and whatever we do should be a witness to the change that has taken place in our heart.

- The lost world needs to see a genuine witness for Christ. Time is running out; if we don't live a life to reach them, who will?

Has the Scripture challenged you today? Are you aware that the end of all things is at hand? Are you looking for Jesus to return today? Have you given Christ your all? Are you participating in life in a way that pleases the Lord? Is your life a witness for the glory of God? If not, why not come and seek the Lord to work in your life? Time is swiftly passing and we need to be all that God desires of us!
